

Faculty COACHE Innovation Awards. These awards support innovation exploration and development by providing faculty with one course release to allow focused time to work on the project. This innovative project is intentionally broad and may be related to research, curricular, engagement, partnerships, or other areas. The awards, however, are not research seed grant funds. Rather, they are specifically designed to be awards of time, providing faculty specifically with time away from teaching to have dedicated time to work on their innovative idea. Applications are due by April 6 at <http://facultyexcellence.ucf.edu/coache-innovation-awards/>

Applications are now being accepted for Provost Fellows and Office of Faculty Excellence Faculty Fellows. The Provost Faculty Fellow Program is designed to develop leadership skills at the university level for UCF's most accomplished faculty. It is anticipated that two Provost Faculty Fellows will be selected for 2017-2018. Information can be found here: <https://facultyexcellence.ucf.edu/provost-faculty-fellows-program/> The Office of Faculty Excellence Faculty Fellow Program is a new faculty Fellow program designed to provide faculty leadership opportunities within the Office of Faculty Excellence. These fellows will work on specific and ongoing initiatives and launch new initiatives through the Office of Faculty Excellence. It is anticipated that up to two Office of Faculty Excellence Faculty Fellows will be selected for 2017-2018. Information can be found here: <https://facultyexcellence.ucf.edu/faculty-fellow-program/> Applications for either fellows program must be submitted by faculty to their college deans/unit heads no later than April 8 with complete applications due to the Office of Faculty Excellence no later than April 12. Note that no more than two applications for each fellows program can be forwarded from each college/unit.

QEP Faculty Fellow

The Quality Enhancement Plan is pleased to announce that applications are now being accepted for faculty fellows for the 2017-18 academic year. Fellows will work with the QEP to promote integrative learning through faculty outreach, student mentoring, and program development. Each fellow receives a stipend of $3000 for this year-long commitment. For more information, please visit the QEP website (<https://undergrad.ucf.edu/whatsnext/get-involved/>), or contact Director, Dr. Anna Maria Jones (anna.jones@ucf.edu). Interested applicants should apply no later than Friday, April 7th 2017 for consideration

UCF Scroll & Quill Society is modeled after two prestigious faculty clubs established in the 1980s to honor faculty members who brought recognition to UCF through published works and academic prestige.

This revamped program honors the Legacy Members of UCF's former Quill and Scroll societies while extending recognition for contemporary UCF faculty achievements in research and creative activities across all disciplines. The specific focus of this society is to recognize faculty members who have demonstrated sustained achievements (for 10 years or more), which have brought positive national or international attention to the institution. Applications are now being accepted for new members of the UCF Scroll & Quill Society, and are due to the Office of Faculty Excellence by Friday, March 24, 2017.
