

Nicholson School of Communication and Media

Student Ambassador Program 2021-2022

The NSCM Ambassador Program creates awareness for prospective and enrolled students about the benefits and programs available through the Nicholson School of Communication and Media. Student Ambassadors may represent and promote the Nicholson School of Communication and Media at recruiting and fundraising events, career fairs, alumni events, and other community outreach activities. Further, NSCM Student Ambassadors will:

- embody the principles and values of the communication and media programs
- promote diverse, inclusive, and rich activities that educate, energize, and encourage active participation in NSCM community events
- connect students with academic and career networking opportunities within and beyond the NSCM community
- represent the NSCM student body at university-wide events that promote the value and importance of NSCM
- represent NSCM through a variety of presentations that may include hosting, attending, and participating in university or NSCM exclusive events

Specific activities may include (but are not limited to): speaking to large-lecture classes, meeting with prospective students and their parents, participating in transfer student orientations, mentoring transfer students, traveling to high schools to recruit future students, and networking with NSCM alumni and donors.
